County Education Board Authorizes More Schools

The go ahead signal for construction of or additions to 10 schools was given Wednesday night at a special meeting of the Jefferson County Board of Education.

No. 1 priority was for a building of a new elementary school on Johnstown Road, west of Dixie Highway, to ease pressure on Valley Elementary School, where double sessions are being held, and other buildings in the Dixie Highway section. The doubled session plan has drawn considerable fire from several sources.

Richard Van Hoose, superintendent, said the board has on hand only $700,000 for new school building. Second priority was given for a school at Oldham Road near South Park School.

Other construction approved by the board, in order of priority are:

1. Replacement of Kosmosdale School.
2. A junior high school on Goldsmith Lane near Hikes Lane.
3. A junior high school on Fairdale Road near South Park School.
4. Replacement of Greenwood School.
5. Addition to Waggoner School.
6. Addition to Durrett School.
7. Addition to Butler School.
8. Herr Lane School.

Van Hoose pointed out that plans for the latter Lane project are tentative and may be changed later as membership figures are completed at the end of the year.

The Wednesday meeting was called at the request of Stanley V. Lobred, chairman, and Mrs. LaVerne Corcoran, secretary of the Valley Station Educational Improvement Association. They were joined by W. L. Lobred, chairman, and Mrs. LaVerne Corcoran, secretary of the Valley Station Educational Improvement Association. They were joined by W. L. Lobred, chairman, and Mrs. LaVerne Corcoran, secretary of the Valley Station Educational Improvement Association.

Mrs. Corcoran has filed suit in Jefferson Circuit Court to halt the doubling of sessions on grounds that they are illegal. She is the mother of a 11-year-old pupil at the school, Susan Lynne.

R. Davis McAfee, representing a delegation of three persons, suggested that some of Valley's funds be sent to Medora. Van Hoose said Medora already had $53 and could possibly accommodate 720 by using special purpose rooms, but no subdivisions in the Medora area might increase membership at the school another 200 or 300 by the end of the year.

The next meeting of the board will be held Monday, 7:30 p.m. at Durrett Junior High School, Preston Highway. Attending the session will be members of the Jefferson County Citizens Commission for Public Schools who will see "first hand" how meetings are conducted.

In another school matter, it has been announced that the Medora Recreation Committee has raised $720 sufficient to purchase a new school building. The group will be aided financially by the Jefferson County Recreation and Recreation Department. The school has been termed useful for further use. It has been suggested that it could be repaired to relieve the situation at Valley.

The Post Office Department is giving patriotic. Effective immediately, street mail boxes will begin to take on a new color scheme - red, white and blue.

Rees H. Dickson, Jeffersontown postmaster, has received instructions to that effect that have been sent to all first, second and third class offices in the Louisville area.

The boxes will be painted the bright colors as the need for repainting them. The order does not include relay or storage boxes which will retain their old color scheme - olive green.

At present, after the morning rush period, buses leave Louisville at 8:30, 10 and 11:30. The new schedule will add two on each line - 9:20 and 10:45. Return time for the new runs will be 10 and 11:30, returning time for the old runs will be unchanged.

Harry L. Swain, co-owner of the lines, said.

Repairs Ordered On Dell Road; New Bids Needed

The Jeffersontown City Council, at a meeting Wednesday night, voted to make repairs immediately to Dell Road between Maple Road and Locust Avenue. Members also voted to oil Park Avenue.

For the second time, the council failed to receive any bids for construction of a mile of streets. Other matters are planned in the Shively area and the Preston Highway section. The latter is planned for 1958. The Shively project is planned in the near future providing a suitable site is available.

Under existing regulations, armories may be used by the communities for civic and recreational purposes when they do not interfere with military activities.

Rotarians Attend Area Information Conference

Ed Ries, president, and three members of the Jeffersontown Rotary Club, Carl A. Hummel, Ralph A. Nebbett and E. Crawford, attended the district and area information conference at the Kentucky State Park. They left Sunday and returned Monday.

Others attending the conference included Harry Bright, president of the Middletown Club, and Lane McCroskey, past president of the St. Matthews Club.

'55 State, County Tax Bills Mailed As Increased Assessments Are Urged

It's state and county tax time again. A total of 290,833 bills for $13,872,246.23 have been mailed by Sheriff Bruce Hobbitt.

The paying period begins Monday. A 2 per cent discount is allowed for payment before November 1 with face value being due until January 1 when a 6 per cent penalty is applied. A 6 per cent penalty is added February 1.

The number of 1955 bills is 29,230 out of that of 1954 and the increase in amount is around $1,000,000.

For the first time, the discount is figured on the face of each bill. This was done to eliminate errors of taxpayers in figuring the allowable discounts.

Carbon copies also are attached to the bills. Taxpayers in property assessments were proposed by the Jefferson County Municipal Conference, an organization of 30 suburban incorporated cities around Louisville.

The proposals were presented by the organization's combined committees on taxation and education. Following a discussion, the proposals were referred back to the joint committee for further discussion. The conference was held at the Lexington Hotel.

County Tax Assessor George Trager has proposed revamping of the assessment structure. In citing an example, he said real estate figures in Louisville and Jefferson County total $441,000, or about 36 per cent of the market price based on 1949 valuations.

Fire Prevention Plans Announced

More than 1,000,000 pieces of fire prevention literature will be distributed in Kentucky during National Fire Prevention Week, October 9-15, has been announced by State Fire Marshal J. T. Underwood, Jr.

Underwood said his office will co-ordinate Kentucky fire prevention activities of national organizations, including the National Board of Fire Underwriters and the National Fire Protection Association.

Pointing to recent large fires in the state, the fire marshal called on local officials, fire departments and civic organizations to plan fire prevention programs in their communities.

Highlighting state-sponsored activities will be a state-wide radio fire drill in which upwards of 400,000 school children are expected to participate. The minute program will be broadcast simultaneously by 46 Kentucky radio stations.

Climax of the show will be a fire drill of 4,000 public and parochial schools throughout the state.

In another state-wide Fire Prevention Week project, school children of all ages will be asked to complete in 25 words or less the sentence, "Fire is our most dangerous enemy because..."

First prizes in six age divisions will be U.S. bonds with maturity date of $75. Second, third and fourth prizes will also be offered. The contest is open to school children only, grades 1 through 12.

Underwood said entry blanks were being sent direct to schools but that blanks may be obtained by writing to him at Frankfort.

A special Fire Prevention Week speaker's bureau has been set up. Underwood said, and 60 civic clubs have already requested fire prevention programs.

Other projects include distribution of home inspection blanks to school children, fire prevention film showings and distribution of fire prevention comic books and booklets.

Landmark Being Razed For Service Station

One of Jeffersontown's landmarks, an old residence on Taylorville Road near Sprowl Road, is being razed to modern business demands.

The log house, that may have been constructed by the Kentucky was a part of Virginia, is being razed to make room for a service station. The property was purchased several months ago by the Standard Oil Company from Mrs. Annie Wyatt.

Although no records, Marshall N. Floore, Sr., who lives near by, said he believes the house is older than his which was built in 1823.

Another Taylorville Road tract is being cleared for a service station. This is vacant property near the Southern Railway overpass.

All a third major building project is under way. This is at 140 North Taylorville Road where an extensive parking lot is being made to the home and office of Dr. Richard E. Dunn which was damaged by fire several weeks ago.

Jack Dawson Appointed To New School Position

Jack Dawson, principal of Eastern High School, Middletown, since it opened in 1950, was named building director of the Jefferson County Board of Education at a special board meeting Wednesday night. His new job will be to supervise new building construction.

Dawson succeeds Harold Mount, who resigned to accept a position with the Preston Highway District John W. Trapp, former assistant principal at Eastern, was promoted to Dawson's old post.

Appointed assistant is Charles R. Trapp, formerly principal at Fern Creek and Oakton and was basketball coach at Fern Creek. Trapp, formerly principal at Crestwood High School in Oldham County, was appointed assistant to Dawson last year.

Fairdale will hold its 25th anniversary community fair September 30-October 2 at the Playatorium under sponsorship of the Fairdale Community Club.

The variety event including contests, farm and home product displays, floral and new food exhibits have been arranged. The program generally will follow that of previous years.

A fish fry is planned for each day and a chicken supper after 4 p.m. Saturday. In addition, there will be luncheon, hot sandwiches, and candies.

Broom Party Announces Slate In Local Campaign

Announcement of the Broom Party slate of candidates for the November 8 election highlighted this week's developments on the Jeffersontown political front.

Led by Lester Douglas, 45, Jeffersontown furniture dealer, candidate for mayor, the ticket includes Shelton Neal, J. R. Dean, William Downes, Lloyd Romele, Ira White and M. R. Burgin, aspirants for councilmen.

Douglas said the necessary papers have been prepared and will be filed in the county clerk's office before the Friday midnight deadline.

The candidate for mayor said the party's platform will be announced later. "From the bottom of our hearts, all candidates, including myself, desire good, honest and decent government." He added that he believed residents of an area should be consulted before any action is taken regarding proposals affecting them.

Meanwhile, the Progressive Citizens Union, the county's largest political group, has filed papers with the county clerk for places on the ballot.

The Progressive group is headed by Lester Douglas, 45, candidate for mayor. He is a member of the City Council, having been elected by that body to succeed Edwin Davis, resigned.

Orland is a wage rate analyst at General Electric.

Candidates for councilmen are Marion O. Reed, Robert L. Williams, Raymond T. Horton, W. V. Lippold, Kenneth L. Ruff and Jesse W. Cume. Incumbents are not seeking re-election.

Heading the People's Party is James B. Eddleman, 44, Jeffersontown realtor and appliance dealer. Others on his ticket are Mrs. Anna Larberg, E. S. Keltner, Ada Ray, A. F. Wiseman, Edward Kuffner, and E. E. Elenback, for seats on the council.

Much of this group's support is coming from the United Neighborhood Association.

E. J. Honrich, who unsuccessfully led a legal battle to prevent the city from annexing the area in the Taylorville Road - Old Six Mile Lane section.

From all indications, observers believe, much of the campaign battle will be woven around one subject—annexation.

House Of Our God

Lesson for September 25, 1955

WHY support churches? The first thing we need to understand about this, as Christians, is that support of the church is not optional, but a "must." During a year's time every citizen is confronted with more "causes" than most of us can keep up with. We are invited to share in many good works: orphanages, schools for the blind, boys' towns, foundations for the study of various diseases, hospitals for Dr. Freeman's crippled children, the Red Cross, all sorts of things. Most of us have to decide which we shall send our few dollars to, and which not. But if a Christian thinks he has a right to decide whether or not to support the church, he does not understand what the church is. The central reason why the church calls for the support of the people of God is that it is the "house of our God."

Here They Know You

If those poor people in ancient Jerusalem pledged themselves to support the house of God, we who are Christians have even more reason to do so. For one thing, the church is where we really belong. Where else in the world is a person recognized for what he is, a child of God? Elsewhere you are a statistic, a consumer, a customer, a taxpayer, a cost item, a voter. These may be important facts about you. But the most important fact about any human being is not that he is kin to the human race, important though that is. The big fact is that every human being is made by God, for fellowship with him. Every man alive is a child of God. Either he knows that or he does not know it. Vast numbers of the human race live as if they were orphans of the storm, they live pigs' lives like the prodigal in Jesus' parable. But no one will tell them they are children of God. No one will tell them of the Father's house, no one will recognize them for what they are. Only in the house of our God.

Here Citizens Are Trained

There are very short-sighted people who may tell you that money put into support of the church could better be spent in civic improvement, such as better schools or sanitation. On the contrary, supporting the church is the best thing that can be done for the betterment of society. It cannot be said too often: even if the church were only a listening post, even if a church did nothing at all but hold a meeting on Sunday, even if a church might as well be laid flat in ashes six days in the week, for all the work it does—still, even if it did no more than hear God's messages once a week, it would be doing a great and unique thing. For the people who hear those messages and believe them would come to know their true relation to God and their duty in his sight; they would live not as animals, not as the "beasts that perish" but as immortal sons and daughters of the Most High. Then if the church is more than a listening post, if it puts its members to work, they will be actually taught and trained in Christian living.

Here God's Will Is Sought and Taught

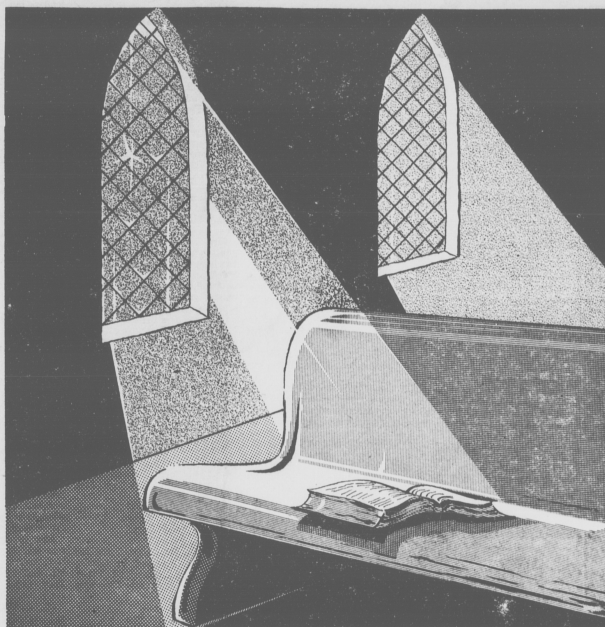

Are we talking about the real church or are we idealizing it? Well, of course no church is quite ideal. But taking the church by and large, these things are true, the church at its best wants them to come true, this is what it is driving at. For the church is the only place in town where large groups of people join in trying to know the will of God, and how to find it and how to do it. The church is the place where problems, personal and/or social, can and ought to be discussed in the light of God's Word and WILL. It is the place where life is looked at in the light of heaven. A church that does not live up to its high calling is hardly worth support; but a church where there is a sincere effort to know what God wants for this community and for our part in it, a church where there is brave and honest opportunity for minister and people to think and to study and to speak out for God and his ways, a church which by prayer and service keeps the door open toward God, such a church is indeed a House of God; how can a Christian refuse to support it?

STRENGTH FOR YOUR DAYS

Wait on the Lord; be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say, on the Lord—(Psalm 27:14.)

SEEK YE FIRST THE KINGDOM

THIS SEAT RESERVED

*W*as this pew provided for you? The empty seat means someone is missing food and fellowship. Is it someone whom you might have invited to church? Without food and fellowship we become skeletons and hermits. An empty pew means a starving soul. Jesus doesn't like empty pews. He knows the tragedy of starving souls. The Bible says for us to attend church. Hebrews 10:25. This seat is reserved for you. Blessed are they who hunger after righteousness, for they shall be filled. Matt. 5:6.

Well, the deadline morning has dawned again and I find myself with one eye cocked on the clock and one eye on the column. Here's hoping I don't get cross-eyed, as far as my disposition is concerned it's already (perhaps I should say always) crossed up, especially on a deadline morning.

daughters, Annie and Kate, returned to New York after a month's visit with Mrs. Harcum at her home in Anchorage. Mrs. Harcum tried the "change of scenery cure" for "ostitis" by joining her husband on a hunting trip to Cincinnati last week.

Another grandmother missing her grandchild after a visit is Mrs. Nell Proctor, who was recently paid a weekend visit by her son, Mr. Bob Proctor, and her wife and son, Kevin, Bowling Green.

While still on the subject of grandmothers, I had a call from a very proud grandmother the other day. Mrs. Lloyd Gates called to tell me that her great-grandson, Paul Stamer III and his daddy, Dr. J. P. Stamer, Jr., were recently commissioned Kentucky Colonels on the governor's staff. Congratulations, sirs.

Also congratulations to Paula K. Stamer who was elected president of her class at the school she attends in Ann Harbor, Mich. Paula Kay and Col. Johnny are also the grandchildren of Col. and Mrs. John W. Howell, in case you didn't know. They expect to pay their grandparents and great grandparents a visit in October before going to Chicago where Dr. Stamer will attend a medical meeting. Dr. Stamer is specializing in heart disease and is attending the University of Michigan.

Dr. Stamer's brother, Mr. Daniel Stamer, formerly of Middletown, has returned to Louisville after visiting Dr. and Mrs. Stamer and children in Ann Harbor.

At an open meeting of the Middletown O.E.S. 319, installation of officers will be held this Friday at 8 o'clock at the Masonic Hall. Officers to be installed are: Leota Andrews, worthy matron; Fred Jackson, worthy patron; Jane Young, associate matron; Lewis Young, associate patron; Mildred Jones, secretary; Vida Keeling, treasurer; Bobbye Yewnow, conductress; Katherine Jones, associate conductress; and Chaplain: C. Malone, marshal; Frances Crank, organist; Pauline Smith, Adah; Maude Money-maker, Ruth; Mary Graves, Eater; Hazel Pulliam, Martha; Mary Tatchell, Ella; Nevel Bell, Belmont; and Nancy Malone, sentinel.

Installing grand officers are: Mrs. Ruth McNeill, past matron; Earl Phillips, Josephine Monroe, Francis Yarbore and Fronnie Johnson, organist.

The Middletown Christian Church will resume its fellowship supper beginning Wednesday, September 23, at 6:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Each member of the church is urged to attend with their family and to bring a covered dish. Miss Yelvin Powell, chairman of the Fellowship Department of the church, will be in charge of the physical arrangements for the supper. Following the supper a film entitled "Where the Bible Speaks, We Speak" will be shown.

Miss Marcelle Crank and Ann Lois Steele have returned from Toronto, Canada, where they were representatives of the Middletown Christian Church at the World Convention of Christian Churches.

You're a YOUNG COUPLE building your first home will it have personality? or-will it be a stereotype assembly type house?

You're a young couple — with home-building — home-owning ideas, and it looks mighty easy, and financially attractive to buy or build a pre-cut or pre-fab home at a low price (just like one down the street). But you REALLY want a home that reflects your individual personality. One that is built (yes, custom-built) according to YOUR plans, with DRY, well-seasoned lumber and millwork. That's the home that's built "for keeps" — built for YOU — just YOU — BY you!

Young couples and their contractors are coming to us every day for DRY, well-seasoned lumber and millwork. They want the BEST! It's worth a little more!

Elementary School

Our new school opened with a flurry of new pupils, parents, teachers and bus drivers. All seeking to find a haven in this new environment. When the counting was over there were enrolled 630 children, 20 teachers, seven bus drivers, six lunch room aides, and custodians. Lunch has now been served for the past three weeks and an air of "hominess" is settling on school and adult alike.

Dedication of the school is set for Thursday, September 29, with an open house extending from 7 to 9 p.m. We cordially invite everyone to come up and visit us on this day.

Our school and P.T.A. hereby express their gratitude to the Parent-Teacher Association of both Fern Creek Elementary and Lovorn Schools for the financial assistance these organizations have given us. This bolstered, our hopes now foster a successful fall festival, Friday, October 28—Conrad Ott.

Brussels sprouts supposedly got their name from the area in Belgium where they were grown. They require long cool growing seasons and the climate of northern Europe seemed right. In our country most of the crop is grown in Long Island, though they are shipped to our markets from some other areas.

The plant is really a tall-stemmed cabbage in which many tiny heads form all along the stem at the bases of the leaves instead of making one large head at the top of a short stem. Harvesting is a laborious job and is done entirely by hand, which, of course, increases the cost. In your own garden, you may have seen similar growth when you cut the large head of cabbage from the stem and many tiny heads have grown from the remaining stalk. This is much the same manner of growth as that of the sprouts.

The season for fresh sprouts in our markets is here. They are moderately priced right now and will continue to be abundant all through January. In some years fresh sprouts are obtained even later in the season. Much of the crop is grown in Long Island, though they are shipped to our markets from some other areas.

TIME TO CONDITION AND TRAIN HUNTING DOGS

Clyde Morton, nine-time winner of the National Champion Trials, says, "Both men and dogs need pre-season workouts."

"As hunting season approaches both need training to get into top condition."

ONE EXTRA POUND OF MILK PER DAY PAYS FOR PURINA

course, depends on the weather conditions in the growing area. They require, long, cool growing seasons.

Marketing practices in many areas nowadays include pre-cooling, trimming and washing. However, it is always a good idea to be perfectly safe and thoroughly soak the sprouts in salted water to remove any traces of dust or insect sprays.

Frozen sprouts are of high quality. They are always ready for cooking as purchased since the stem end has been cut and they have been thoroughly washed prior to freezing.

What are the signs of quality in fresh sprouts? Select those that are firm, compact and of a good green color. Avoid puffy heads, yellow and wilted leaves, and traces of insect injury. Always store them in the refrigerator to retain their crisp, fresh quality.

These "little cabbages" are all too often mistreated in cooking so that they develop a strong flavor. Further, they are many times allowed to stand for long periods of time before they are served, which is another contributing factor to off flavor. When properly cooked, they have a distinctive flavor but not a strong one.

Keep them at their best by proper cooking. Drop them into boiling salted water. After the water comes to the boil, let the sprouts stand, starting counting cooking time. It will take about 8 to 12 minutes to get them tender, depending on size. Drain as soon as they are tender and serve at once.

This little vegetable is seldom served raw, but it can be a good appetizer. Its flavor blends well in raw and raw vegetable salads. There is a big nutritional advantage in preserving their high Vitamin C content which may be lost in part by cooking.

Home Vegetable Harvest Can Last All Winter

Harvest in home vegetable gardens need not end with freezing weather. Plants whose edible parts are underground are better off left there, until ground begins to freeze. Fall leaf crops usually without serious injury. Both lettuce and spinach can be stored in a cold cellar or in a refrigerator. They may be used as long as they remain in edible condition. Frost improves the flavor of radishes. Brussels sprouts can be frozen hard several times without injury, and are then harvested until Christmas. Kale is almost as hardy, and is a Chinese cabbage. Cabbages of all kinds can be taken in after cold weather really sets in, and stored in a shed or garage where they are protected from hard freezing.

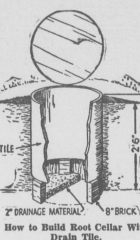

Tomatoes should be picked before they are frozen and ripened indoors. Various methods are followed, and all seem to work. One is to leave the tomatoes on the fruit attached, others lay the fruit on a shelf or in a drawer.

Pumpkins, squash and sweet potatoes should be stored in a temperature between 55 and 65 degrees, which is often found in a heated basement.

When the ground begins to freeze on the surface, carrots, beets, turnips and rutabagas should be dug. If there are only a few inches of snow, the vegetables can be kept safely in an unheated garage or shed, stored in a box or barrel. If the ground is frozen, the vegetables will be kept in a barrel or bin, covered with straw or hay. They will keep well in a cold cellar or in a refrigerator.

Nature's own deep freeze can be used to keep pumpkins and squash. They should be stored in a cold cellar or in a refrigerator. They will keep well in a cold cellar or in a refrigerator.

Winter chives, Parsnips are much sweeter and more tender after being frozen. A convenient way to handle them is to dig up the roots before the soil from roots, divide the roots into parts each sufficient for one family service. Put each part in a box and take it out, which will start from the surface, especially, and have a lid for the box which is easily opened. The roots will freeze, and keep during the winter. When you need a serving for dinner, open the box and take it out, which is much easier than digging.

Outdoor root cellars are easily made. One way is to sink a box into the ground, and cover the ground, with its top several inches below the surface. Cover the box with a straw mat. Hardware cloth can be nailed on the lid to protect the roots from rodents. Vegetables may be packed in straw or hay, which are sunk in the ground and covered with soil several inches deep.

Serious Potato Market Glut Is Averted In State

Due to the close co-operation of farmers, the food industry and the press, a serious potato market glut in Kentucky was averted this year.

During August, two chains sold over 1,250,000 pounds of Kentucky produced potatoes or over 40 carloads. In August Kentucky farmers averaged a net of $11.0 a bushel compared with a national average of 75 cents according to statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

This unusual co-operation between farmers and business came about as a result of a meeting in July when farmers realized that a potato market glut was pending. A meeting was called by Fred Stutzenberger, a farmer at Worthington, the Extension Service and the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and asked for the co-operation of all people connected with the trade in moving the burdensome potatoes to market. After the operation had proved successful, Stutzenberger said, "Our potato market here would have been stagnant with no help, just like some Eastern markets are now, in moving potatoes at $1 a hundred pounds."

John Koon, executive director of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, said, "It was an excellent example of what can be accomplished with farmers and business organizations working together," and he said he was very happy with the results.

Potato production in Jefferson and Oldham Counties is declining, but is increasing in other parts of the state.

FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

by Emmett Mitchen
Graduate Feeding Advisor

TODAY'S FEEDING MARGINS ARE GOOD

Almost buried under all the talk about lower current farm prices is the fact that feeding profits in general are significantly better today than they were a year ago. While prices the farmer gets for his livestock and poultry products may be somewhat down, his cost of feed has dropped even more creating favorable ratios in most lines of feeding.

One year ago, a dozen eggs returned an average of 62 cents a dozen, which means that a 126 today, which means that a year ago, broilers returned 8.6 cents per pound over feed costs, compared with an estimated 11 cents today.

The milk-feed ratio this time last year was 1.16, compared to 1.26 today, which means that a hundred pounds of milk on today's market will buy ten pounds more dairy feed than it would a year ago. The butterfat-feed ratio this time last year was 18.9, compared to 20.6 today.

Hog returns per cwt. over feed costs are estimated at a pretty normal $4.80. While this is below last year's near-record $9.52, it still holds the promise of dependable profits from efficient hog feeding operations.

These figures should offer confidence and enthusiasm to livestock and poultry feeders. Those feeders who buy their rations are faced with unusually good profit prospects. Furthermore, many crop farmers see in these facts a most profitable way to "walk their grains to market" through livestock and poultry. The 1955 harvest of home grains, properly fortified with balanced commercial supplements and fed to calves, hogs or poultry, can be an unusual profit maker for farmers this year.
